

CARVER, JEWELER AND PRINTMAKER

Pootoogook Qiatsuk

I was born in Cape Dorset (Kingait). I started carving when I was young after watching my father, Lukta work at his carving. Ancient masks are my favorite images, because the images reflect the Inuit Culture, it is genuine in its own reflection of Inuit ways and people. As a tradition, people would tattoo their faces and other parts of their body, and I enjoy using this imagery in my artwork.

I studied as a Printmaker for eight years at the West Baffin Eskimo Co-op and graduated from the Arctic College Jewellery and Metalwork Program. Currently, I am studying Goldsmithing at the Arctic College and living in Iqaluit with my wife and children.
